

HEADQUARTERS FOR REPAIRS AT NELSON

NORTHWESTERN WILL CENTER WORK THERE FOR LARGE TERRITORY.

CHANGE TO BE MADE DEC. 1

Offices for Roadmaster of the Peoria Line and Western Galena Division There.

Beginning Dec. 1 the headquarters for the car repairs of this section of the Northwestern will be moved to Nelson. The territory in charge of John Roark will be enlarged and will include Dixon and Rochelle and points between the two towns. All of the train repairers in Sterling, with the exception of four men will be moved to Nelson and the Dixon men will come under control of Mr. Roark.

The new move is a part of the centralization scheme with Nelson as headquarters. Henceforth all of the repairs that will be done in Sterling or Dixon will be had transfer orders. Heretofore had through orders were set out here or at Sterling to be repaired. Henceforth these had orders will be set out at Nelson. Bad transfer orders for or from the Illinois Central at Dixon or for or from the Q. at Sterling will be repaired at the respective stations.

There is also a rumor afloat that the offices of the roadmasters for the Peoria line and the western half of the Galena division of the Northwestern will be moved to Nelson. Roundhouse Foreman Gay has moved his family to Nelson.

HEATING PIPES LEAKED;

CITY HALL COLD
Owing to a leak in the pipes at the city hall, that building was cold for a few hours today. It became necessary for City Clerk Grover to turn off the heat. The city clerk attended to business with his overcoat buttoned up to the neck. The police officers "did" their best to keep warm and the fire boys built a fire in the heater.

FOREIGNER FINED FOR

FORBIDDEN FUN
Some of the foreigners employed at the cement plant got rather boisterous yesterday and got their names on the docket in Justice of the Peace Crabtree's court this morning.

Balint Meszanos was charged with assault and battery, committed on Mrs. Steve Bubic. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Bubic's husband. Meszanos was soaked $3 and costs. Quite a party of the fellow countrymen of the parties interested in the case journeyed down to be present at the trial.

They grow some huge ones down there, and this is a good specimen of the diamond rattler, with nine rattles and a button, making it twelve years old. The skin is on exhibition in the window of H. O. Wheeler's barber shop.

REMEMBER HOSPITAL ON THANKSGIVING

FIFTEEN PATIENTS ARE NOW AT THE DIXON INSTITUTION.

This is Thanksgiving time, the season when we count over our blessings and bring ourselves to realize their magnitude, and it is the proper thing to show our appreciation of them in some ostensible form. Why not send a basket of goodies to the hospital in our city as a tribute for blessings received. There are today fifteen people lying ill at the hospital, who will be separated from their families on a day set apart for family reunions and rejoicings. Gladden the day for them by a donation. Will some one not send a turkey or other fowl?

Many of the Dixon people may think that the hospital is now well provided for in the late Judge Be-thea's generous bequest. As many know, the estate is not yet settled, hence the hospital is none the richer. It is a number of years since the hospital board has appealed to the public for aid and expenses are met only through the strictest economy. A fire escape has just been erected to the cost of over three hundred dollars, and the winter's supply of coal and vegetables contracted for. All know the expense of these items.

The hospital will be grateful for any sort of donations, fruit, vegetables, butter, eggs, or anything you may feel like giving.

The Dixon Public Hospital is one of our creditable institutions. Besides caring for the sick, and thus doing a philanthropic work, it is an adjunct to Dixon's financial interests. Few people realize that the Dixon hospital pays out to the Dixon merchants on the average of six hundred dollars monthly, so the Telegraph says: "Help the hospital," send the patients a Thanksgiving offering.

ROCKFORD, 42; DIXON, 0.

The Dixon high school team was in poor luck last Saturday and the Rockford high school team trim them to the tune of 42 to 0. The boys all did the best they could but they were up against a lineup that is looking for up-state honors this year and were a little out-classed. The Rockford papers mention Henry Smith, playing right halfback for Dixon, as carrying a great deal of the brunt of the game upon his shoulders. Smith is active and very speedy, and plays the game with a level head.

APPLES COME HIGH.

Apples retailing at $9.50, $7.50 and $6.50 per barrel are "some apples." There are such apples on sale in this city. The Dixon Grocery company has disposed of quite a few barrels at the above prices. They are, without any exception, the finest apples on sale in this city. They come Baldwins, Spitzenberg and Spy.

DIXON MAN BUYS

HOTEL AT NELSON
Alfred Bolkin of Dixon has just purchased the Plumley hotel property at Nelson and will move to that village and take charge of the business.

Since the Northwestern road has opened up the new round house at Nelson and established its wrecking crew in that town it has brought many railroad men to the village, and the hotel business has been on the boom.

PAYS BEST OF ALL.

Did you read that beautiful little sketch about the busy author who asked "Does baby pay for itself?" He was trying to get off something great and profitable when the baby rapped at the door. For a long time he grunted and groaned to himself about children being a nuisance and a great trial. Then baby said "I lub my papa" whereupon he let her in and, with her little soft cheek pressed against his, decided that baby does pay for itself.

EXTENSION LECTURE

Another number of the University Extension Lectures will be given next Monday evening, November 28, the subject being "George Elliott."

LAMP EXPLODES; STARTS FIRE

Damage Is Done to Rugs at the Fred North Home Saturday Night.

A fire in the residence at 1213 Fourth street, owned by Mrs. Harriet A. Shaw, did damage amounting to about $100 Sunday morning about 10 o'clock. The department responded promptly.

The floor near the chimney on the second story, caught fire from the chimney, presumably, and considerable of the floor was burned.

The building is insured by the Glenn Falls company, of which J. N. Sterling is local agent.

Lamp Explodes.
Saturday night a lamp in the home of Fred North exploded, fire damaging several rugs. The damage is something like $15. The furniture in this home is insured by the Glenn Falls company. The department was not called.

THE OLD TROUBLE.

We think we are having a great deal of affliction in this country but they are no better off in England. A dispatch says great changes are impending in the British army, and military circles are wondering how a great many high officials are going to lose their official heads for placing the English army in a ridiculous light during the recent military maneuvers which were admittedly the worst ever witnessed in any European country. Though the English newspapers had nothing but praise for the officers and men, the foreign critics who were present were far less lenient and in German papers the statement has appeared that many times the confusion was so great that it was really amusing and certainly what happened would have been amusing to the German army. For the British troops were firing at themselves at point blank range and no one seemed to know where they were.

FORMER DIXONITES

PROSPERING IN WEST
In writing from Los Angeles concerning a change of address for her Telegraph Mrs. Frank Curran states that her husband has been promoted to superintendent of the company he is with, and also states that Charles and Frank have a nice lumber business at Pomona and are doing well. They are former residents of Dixon, Charles having been a clerk in the postoffice here.

PRIZED LOCKET LOST

AND LUCKILY FOUND
Saturday night Henry Kenneth lost a locket from his watch chain which he prized most highly. The locket is 200 years old. Mr. Kenneth did not miss the locket until on his way down town Sunday morning. He at once got busy. This morning he found the locket in the National Clothing house. He was in that business house Saturday night and in some manner the locket became detached from his chain.

HURT BY FALLING OF

STEAM SHOVEL
J. Corner of this city has received word of the injury of his son in law, Fred Shaw, at LaPorte, Ind. Shaw was at one time a resident of Dixon and an employee of the Sandusky Portland Cement company. He left Dixon several months ago. It is not known just what the extent of his injuries are. It seems that he was hurt by the falling of a steam shovel he was operating.

TIME TO STORE

THE PARK SEATS
It is time to take the seats out of John Dixon park. Boys, thoughtlessly, might damage them. This is a matter which the park commissioners should give attention to, for park seats ought to be put away now.

CASE FOR SUPREME COURT

Attention of the state supreme court is respectfully called to certain proceedings before the Cook county grand jury, the courts of Chicago, and the Chicago Bar association, concerning that august tribunal.

The State Journal has reference to charges made by States Attorney Wayman against Attorney Erbstein and the counter charge of the latter against the prosecutor. They are of a character to demand early attention from the supreme court justices.

Erbstein is accused of bribing jurors in the Lee O'Neil Browne case, immediately he makes or causes to be made, similar accusation against Wayman. Given an opportunity to prove his accusation, Erbstein's attorney makes an effort to have the case dropped. When the bar association committee denies this request, Erbstein fails to produce his alleged testimony against the prosecutor. Apparently the accusation is baseless and was made simply for the purpose of confusing the issue in his own case and prejudicing the public against the official whose duty it is to prosecute him.

It may be said that this is not a matter for consideration of the Illinois supreme court at the present time. The State Journal thinks otherwise. So will the general public when it understands the situation.

Both Wayman and Erbstein hold permits to practice law in this state. Both permits were issued by the state supreme court. That body is responsible, not only for admitting men to practice at the bar, but for the conduct of the men after they are admitted. It must see that the general character of its list of attorneys is maintained and that lawyers who degenerate into shysters and crooks are stricken from the roll.

It is not to be expected that the court will take cognizance of every little irregularity reported, nor that it will go about hunting up cases against lawyers, but there are cases when it ought to act on its own initiative in stopping abuses. The Wayman-Erbstein case presents such a contingency.

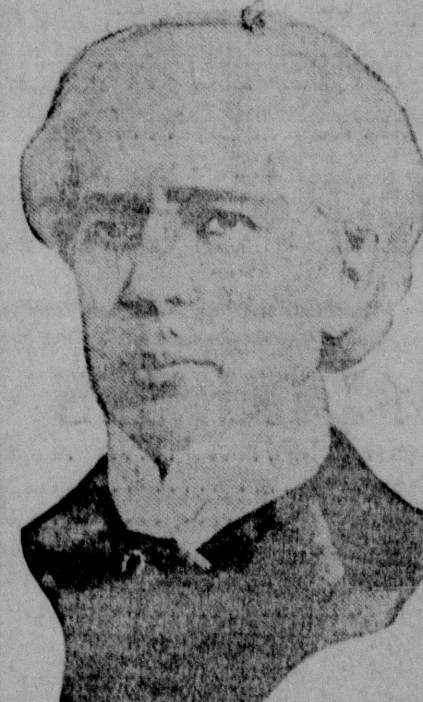

The charges against Browne produced a nation-wide scandal. The first trial of Browne created another. On the second trial the scandal grew. Revelations following it were of a character to impair public confidence in the courts and in those responsible for honest administration of the law. The case has become so notorious that no official, least of all officials connected with courts, can afford to ignore it.

Lawyers who want to see their profession protected from the practices which are making the administration of criminal law in Cook county a joke, ought to insist that the supreme court open its eyes to what is going on under its very nose and see what every man in the state sees. As a matter of observation the lawyers should insist.

It will not be necessary for the supreme court to violate the precious precedents of the law in order to take up this matter. Time and again courts have adopted heroic measures in putting an end to notorious lous abuses. They are not compelled to twiddle their thumbs while the atmosphere about them is belk skunk defiled.

There is no reason why any practitioner in the state should be permitted to violate the laws of God and man to score in a law suit. This sort of thing is not permitted in the country and it should not be permitted in Cook county. The time has come to call a halt and since the abuse demands immediate attention, the supreme court should take the initiative.

CONFERENCE ON HIGH SCHOOL WORK

GREAT RESULTS GROWING FROM THE ANNUAL STATE GATHERING

AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Superintendent Baldwin of North Dixon Was in Attendance at Meeting.

The seventh annual High School conference held a three-days session from the 17th to the 19th inclusive, at the University of Illinois, with a large attendance. This body of high school workers is unique in that it is a working conference. The purpose is not chiefly or merely inspiration, but it is working out year by year and through a series of years a well defined plan. Its first meeting was held at the university in 1905 and from the attendance of 75 at that time, it has increased in interest and numbers until at its last conference there were over 600 enrolled.

The first conference of 1905 had but three groups or sections, those for the study of English, biology and physical sciences. This session included twelve distinct groups or sections. The characteristic feature of the conference is these section meetings. The different groups are able to make an intensive study of the problems connected with their respective subjects.

The general sessions were of special interest in that they dealt with some of the great vital questions facing our high schools at the present time. Some of these were "Needed Adjustments in Our High School Course of Study," by Prof. Elliot, University of Wisconsin; "State Aid to High Schools in Minnesota and How It Works," by George B. Alton, state high school inspector. The progress of the section meetings is very extensive and a large number of the prominent school men and women of the state and of other states take part in the discussions.

There can be no doubt but that this gathering will have far-reaching and will continue to result in great good to the secondary schools (high schools) of the state. In the way of co-operation in best methods of teaching and of supervision, in the working out of plans to bring in the work of manual training, commercial work and domestic science and of cutting out the more abstract lines of work from the curriculum, much is being accomplished. There is increasing demand not only upon our high schools, but upon our grades as well, to give such instruction as shall be of most use to them in the world of work and business. Therefore, a conference such as this, held yearly, has come to be a positive necessity.

North Dixon high school was represented at the Chicago High School conference on the 16th and 17th by Principal Miss J. F. Wheeler, while the same school was represented at the University of Illinois, just closed, by Superintendent H. V. Baldwin.

IT GROWS HAIR.

HERE ARE FACTS WE WANT YOU TO PROVE AT OUR RISK

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germ which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the root of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum or permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, C. M. Campbell & Son.

AN AGE OF PROGRESS.

This is an age of progress in medicine. New ideas, new theories and new preparations are presented almost daily. Only the closest observers and those who keep up with the progress are able to adopt the good and cast aside the worthless. It requires constant study and much clinical experience to keep a physician in the right line of action, able to meet the exigencies of all occasions.

Dr. Prettyman has the opportunity to keep up with the progress of medicine, since he has access to the large hospitals and can study cases and treatment to his own advantage as well as that of his patients.

ILLINOIS NEWS
TOLD BRIEFLY

Five valuable young horses, one a beautiful young stallion, belonging to F. F. Murtaugh were killed at a point two miles east of Ohio station. The animals in some manner got on the track.

Holders of stallion registration licenses in Illinois will be given an opportunity to renew their licenses on January 1, 1911, at half the original price of the license.

Having practiced law intermittently for the past 16 years, between his vacation in congress, Hon. J. C. Graff of Peoria has decided that after March 5th next he will give his profession his exclusive attention, and settle down to it as a steady habit.

J. B. Corson has purchased the plant of the Ohio Concrete Block company.

The stockholders of the Ohio opera house will hold their annual ball Thanksgiving eve.

J. P. Stevens of Walnut holds the record in that section as a fox hunter. While on a brief trip to the vicinity of New Bedford a few days ago he bagged four of the animals and was only absent from town a few hours. They were all fine specimens and his killing of four so easily denotes that these supposedly scarce animals are numerous in that locality.

After vainly trying to stave off dissolution the People's Crystal Ice company of Rockford has been placed in the hands of a receiver in voluntary bankruptcy proceedings begun in Freeport Friday.

Farm land in Winnebago county is steadily rising in value. A 160-acre tract sold the other day for $25,000.

Herman Martin, a former Rochelle resident, died at the county house the other day. He had been an inmate for 25 years. He came to Rochelle from Germany 30 years ago a sober, industrious young man. He had saved a small sum of money to make a home for his promised wife he had left at home. Suddenly he received the news that she had married another. The shock unbalanced his mind. He staid in the room he had rented until all of his money was gone and was unable to concentrate his mind on earning more. He was then removed to the county house.

The Northern Illinois Normal school at DeKalb will offer to the young people of Illinois a short course in agriculture covering six days. This course will open Jan. 2, 1911.

The Oak Ridge cemetery near Springfield is the burial place of a hidden treasure amounting to $200,000, is the firm belief of Philip Ring, a coal miner residing at Springfield, who has made application to the board of managers of the cemetery that he be permitted to search for the buried hoard. Ring says the money was hidden by robbers in the '60's.

DEKALB POLICEMAN SHOT ASSAILANT

DeKalb, Nov. 21.—Five men attacked Patrolman Lindsay late Saturday night as he was traveling his beat near the steel mills.

John McGlen seized the policeman by the throat and was about to choke him when Lindsay shot. McGlen fell and his associates fled. The injured man was taken to the city hospital, where the doctors probed for the bullet, which pierced the man's abdomen. McGlen will probably die.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL
FANS IN BANQUET

SPREAD WAS TENDERED ASSOCIATION BY MRS. VIRDEN SATURDAY NIGHT.

PLAY IN CHICAGO THURSDAY

Dixon Team Has Game With DePauw College Thanksgiving —The Toasts.

The Dixon college football team will play their Thanksgiving game with DePauw college team in Chicago. To create enthusiasm for the coming game, the last and perhaps the best of the season, Mrs. L. Mae Virden, wife of the president of the institution and herself vice president of the college, gathered the football team together with the members of the Dixon College Athletic association, in chapel hall Saturday night and banqueted them.

It was a typical football affair. There were miniature footballs at the plate of each guest for souvenirs; suspended from ribbons of the college colors was the ball which was instrumental in making the season a successful one for the college team. In addition to footballs, flowers and college colors, there were college yells, which were given frequently and vigorously.

Martin Gannon, law student and prominent in athletics, was toastmaster, and well he performed the difficult part.

At the head of the table sat Mrs. Virden, the hostess, elegantly gowned, and at either side filling the table, which extended the entire width of Chapel hall, sat more than fifty young men, members of the Athletic association.

Represented were the states of Pennsylvania, Dakota, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Louisiana and Indiana.

The affair was one of the most prominent social functions of the institution and was pronounced a success by everyone who was fortunate enough to have received an invitation.

Daniel Diebler and Earl Cross came out from Chicago for the event. The former holds a responsible position with the Pullman company, and the latter fills a lucrative position with a large Chicago firm. Both are graduates of the college.

At the same hour Saturday night the Chicago Alumni association of Dixon college held a party at the White City in Chicago. Letters were read here from the students gathered in Chicago and letters from the students here were read there.

The Chicago letters were read by Mrs. Virden and at the conclusion there were three cheers given for the boys and girls in the city by the lake.

The girls, especially attired for the occasion, acted as waitresses and their presence added much to the enjoyment of the affair.

A few minutes previous to the banquet, Charles Hintz took a flashlight picture of the party.

Program of Toasts

The following program of toasts was given at the conclusion of the banquet:

The Association—Prof. Karl Goodall.

TWO DIXON MEN
HEAD THE COMPANY

BATCHELDER AND BACKUS ARE DEVELOPING ORCHARDS IN TEXAS.

Since Claude Backus went to Texas to take the general management of the Gulf Coast Development company at Alcoa there has been a change in the personnel of the company and the two Dixon men now hold the principal offices. At the last election the following officers were selected by the stockholders:

J. M. Batchelder, president.
Claude Backus, vice president and general manager.
F. L. Dana, secretary and treasurer.
E. S. Loomis, general sales manager.

The capital stock is $125,000 and the present interest of the company is the development of the Alcoa orchards. Quite a number of Dixon people have invested in tracts of five or more acres in this productive part of the gulf state, the land lying between Houston and Galveston. The principal products of the locality are Satsuma oranges and figs. With Messrs. Batchelder and Backus at the head, the Dixon investors feel that their interests are receiving the best of care.

NEWSPAPER SPOTTERS.

A report comes from Pennsylvania to the effect that special agents of the postoffice department are going over the country dropping into newspaper offices to examine subscription lists, when least expected, and ascertain if the regulation requiring payment of subscriptions is being observed.

"It is a very dangerous business for a newspaper publisher to send papers who are more than 12 months in arrears," says the Towanda, Pa., Review. To be deprived of the second class mailing privilege, which is the penalty for non-compliance with the rulings, puts a newspaper out of business, for the expense of putting a one cent stamp on every paper mailed amounts to much more than the profits of the entire subscription business, to say nothing of the increased labor of putting the stamps on the papers.

RECENT KNOWLEDGE ABOUT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The Contagious Nature of This Disease, and Measures Taken to Protect the Child.

Hutchins Hapgood, in the current number of Collier's Weekly, contributes the following interesting investigation of infantile paralysis:

The many cases of infantile paralysis occurring in Iowa, the fact that a number of cases have developed in northern Illinois, and the recent discovery of the contagious nature of the disease makes reliable information concerning the disease and measures taken to protect the children of much interest locally. There have been several cases in this vicinity, including the two children of Colonel F. O. Lowden at Oregon and also the little son of Mrs. Grisdale, nee Frances Orvis.

A letter of inquiry to Colonel Lowden brings a reply containing the following information: "The newspaper reports to the effect that a serum had been used with our children were unfounded. Dr. Joseph A. Capps of Chicago has been in charge of the case, and Dr. Frank Billings, also of Chicago, has been in consultation with him about it. They both tell me that there is no specific remedy at the present time for this disease, but that good care, massage, electrical treatment help greatly. I regret exceedingly that I cannot give you more useful information, but the doctors tell me that very little is known of the disease, although the Rockefeller Institute of New York City is making helpful studies of it."

The most important thing that the public needs to know about the terrible disease, poliomyelitis called infantile paralysis, is that it is contagious. The certain knowledge of this fact is very recent, and is consequently unknown not only to the general public but to the great majority of even good physicians. In the September, 1910, issue of "Archives of Pediatrics," Dr. L. Emmett Holt, the eminent child specialist, who has made an extensive study of this disease, writes: "It seems to me to be conclusively shown that this disease under certain conditions is highly contagious, demanding during an epidemic strict quarantine." Many cases tending to show this are given. One of the most remarkable is the following: A member of a threshing crew of seven young men was exposed to the disease in a household where there were two cases, and had a slight attack. One after another the entire crew developed the disease, which in one case ended fatally. The men were thrown very closely together, ate and slept together, drank from the same jug, etc. As adults are far less susceptible to the disease than are children, this case is especially striking.

Perhaps the most important single case on record among the hundreds which point to the communicability of the disease is taken from an epidemic in Trostina, Sweden. This district, Dr. Holt points out, is most admirably adapted to serve as a test case. It is twelve miles square, off the main lines of travel, has a population of five hundred persons who live on farms, in detached houses, with separate wells, separate cows and food for each family, largely produced on the respective farms. There is, therefore, little intercommunication.

Epidemics and Sporadic Cases.

Within six weeks after the first child was stricken there were forty-nine cases, affecting nearly ten per cent of the population. The spread of infection seemed clearly traceable to the parish school, the only center of communication. The history of the disease's progress, accurately known in this case, as it passed from family to family, by means of the school, as a center, indicated not only direct contagion, but also that the infection may be carried by a third person who does not contract the disease, but gives it to others. Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute also recognizes, in a recently published pamphlet, the communicable nature of the disease; and several States have recently made the disease a reportable one and established strict quarantine.

Poliomyelitis has been known for many years, and even its infectious nature, on account of the fact that it often appears as epidemic, has been long suspected. It is the certainty of the infectiousness and the further fact of the contagiousness that have been of so recent knowledge. Another development of the last few years is the alarming increase of the disease in its epidemic form. In the last five years there have been thirty-one recorded epidemics with 4,940 recorded cases, or more than five times as many cases as previously recorded in medical literature. Dr. Holt writes: "While it is certainly true that, as a consequence of the greater interest in the subject, cases of poliomyelitis are now recognized which formerly might have been overlooked, still even a cursory survey of the facts must convince one that a wave of infection, starting apparently from Scandinavia, is gradually spreading over the country, possibly over the world."

The Scandinavian epidemics took place in 1905 and 1906, the great New York epidemic in 1907, and severe epidemics have occurred at about the same time and since in Massachusetts, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and lesser epidemics and sporadic cases all over this country—as well as extensive epidemics in Cuba, Germany, Austria, and France. It would seem as if the outbreaks in this country may have been the result of Scandinavian immigration. Dr. Flexner points out that "the original foci of the epidemic disease in the United States, occurring in the summer of 1907, were along the Atlantic seaboard, and the two centers of population most seriously affected were about Greater New York and Boston; . . . those two centers of population receive first and in the most concentrated way the immigrant population from northern and eastern Europe; . . . the further fact becomes significant that the second outbreak of the disease in this country occurred in that part of the Middle West, namely, about Minnesota, which receives a large influx of immigrant population from Norway and Sweden.

The disease has recently been shown to be caused by a living organism so small that it can pass through the finest bacterial filter. Experiments on monkeys, in the Rockefeller Institute, under the direction of Dr. Flexner, have succeeded in isolating the germ, which is so small that it is doubtful if by any device it has been seen. That it is a living organism is shown, however, Dr. Flexner points out, by the fact that extremely minute quantities of the virus "suffice to carry infection through an indefinite series of animals. We have propagated the virus now through twenty-five generations, representing twenty-five separate series of monkeys, and as many removes from the original human material supplying it, and the activity of the virus for the monkeys has increased rather than diminish in the course, and as a result of, the successive transplantations."

For all practical purposes, therefore, the germ, though unseen, is discovered. They can inoculate monkeys with the disease and can produce in them immunization, much in the same way as the smallpox virus is used on human beings. As yet, however, the discovery has not affected the direct treatment of the disease, since the preparation of a serum antitoxin sufficiently strong to overcome the virus has not yet been made. What these experiments on monkeys have surely accomplished, however, is to establish beyond doubt the infectious and contagious nature of the disease; and when this fact is sufficiently realized by the public, the disease will be greatly lessened in extent and possibly stamped out by quarantine and generally preventive measures.

Where Paralysis Does Not Occur.

Until very recently no attention had been paid to what is called abortive case of poliomyelitis. It is now certain that many children are affected with the disease without any resulting paralysis. Since at present the diagnosis can not be surely made until actual paralysis occurs, these abortive cases, for the most part, pass unnoticed, and yet it is probable that they can convey the disease as effectively as those cases in which paralysis takes place.

The points touched upon above suggest the more recent knowledge of the disease—its contagiousness, the discovery of the germ, and the existence of abortive cases.

Poliomyelitis has usually an acute onset, generally accompanied by fever, pains in the extremities, back of the neck, stomach and bowel disturbance, and a greater or less degree of general prostration. Sometimes, however, the child suddenly stumbles or wakes up in the morning with a paralyzed limb, having had no previous symptoms. The fever lasts, as a rule, about three days, though it may last longer, and is not often as high as 103 degrees. The great bulk of children affected are less than four years old, though children of any age may contract the disease. During the fever a general loss of power occurs; after the fever there is, for some weeks or months, a considerable degree of spontaneous improvement, leaving, however permanent paralysis in certain groups of muscles, which become badly wasted. Sometimes, owing to the atrophy of the muscles, and the consequent disturbance of balance between the various groups, there are to be feared serious deformities—spinal curvatures, what are known as "hump" back, "club" feet, distortions of the face and of other parts of the body, some hideous in the extreme. A large percentage of the cripples one sees is the result of this disease. You hear some one say that a certain child was dropped by its nurse and so developed a "hump" back; that a certain man with a wasted and useless arm "caught cold" when a child; that some deformity was due to the effect of malaria or some other disease. Such "accidents" and alleged effects from illness are now thought to be largely the result of this germ disease.

It is probable that a very large percentage of the worst of these deformities may be averted by proper treatment. The disease itself can not as yet be treated. For that we must wait for the preparation of an antitoxin and for more knowledge of the symptoms, so as to be able to make a diagnosis before the paralysis occurs and the damage is done.

All that can be done at present is to treat the effects of the disease. The paralysis results from the destruction of the spinal cord. A function of these cells is to supply nutrition to the muscles. With the destruction or disturbance of the cells, the nutrition of the muscles is cut off and they tend to wither and die.

The Care of the Child

The essential treatment is directed to keeping the affected muscles in as good a state of preservation as possible until the spontaneous improvement in the nervous system takes place and the cells resume their function of supplying nutrition. It is essential that when the nervous force returns it should find sound muscles to affect. Drugs are sometimes given, but the essential treatment consists of massage, electricity, and muscular exercises. Some physicians place great reliance upon electricity, properly applied, but massage and exercises are relied upon especially by the majority of practitioners, as a means of keeping the muscles intact until the cord resumes its activity. It is probable that all these are of use in some cases and at certain stages. The general care of the child is extremely important. It should be kept as much as possible in the open air and should have the most nourishing food.

The child's stomach is likely to be weakened, and it is as important that the muscles should not be fatigued or strained as it is that they should be exercised. It is therefore a delicate task to feed the child so that the utmost amount of nourishment may be given without overloading his delicate stomach, and to exercise him as much as possible without undue fatigue or strain. Here the supreme importance of a faithful and intelligent nurse, whether she is a mother or an employed person, is immediately realized. To find some one of sufficient moral character to keep up a regime conscientiously for months and perhaps years is no easy task.

The Percentage of Recoveries and Deaths

Although exercises, whether formal or attained through play and games are of the greatest importance, they are also attended by great danger. Through them, if improperly directed, the serious deformities may be encouraged or caused. At the best, the unaffected muscles are likely to be under so great a strain, during the atrophy of their companion muscles, that the balance of the groups is easily disturbed, and deformities may arise. These deformities are not always perceptible to the untrained eye when they begin. For this reason the association of a surgeon, especially an orthopedic surgeon, with the regular doctor, may be of great importance in preventing the most serious deformities.

If any part of the cord is entirely destroyed, there will be some permanent lameness or weakness in more or less of the muscular system. And as there is generally some actual destruction, the percentage of absolute recoveries, like the percentage of deaths, is small. It is variously estimated, but is probably not greater than ten per cent.

Some authorities, however, place it as high as twenty-five per cent or even higher; but it is probable that they would include among the recoveries those cases where the final defects are so slight that they can be discovered only on close examination, such as one leg or arm being slightly shorter than the other.

It is probable that ninety per cent have some permanent weakness of some muscles, but this weakness may not always impair the individual's power of performing his life functions and of being a useful, successful, and happy citizen.

Cheerful Concentration of Mind
The therapeutic value of hopefulness is decided. If the parents, nurse or child is discouraged, the effect is unfavorable. Belief that a limb may ultimately be properly used tends to have a direct muscular result. The concentration of the child's mind, and its cheerful concentration, on the exercises, is helpful.

The fatalistic attitude toward paralysis, so long held, forms a bad moral atmosphere for the stricken child. He should believe that he will get entirely well, and should be cheerful, interested, happy, and free from all possible nervous irritation. —Collier's Weekly.

USUALLY ONE DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION

DYSPEPSIA, HEARTBURN, GAS AND ALL STOMACH DISTRESS VANISHES

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or if you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body you must rid your stomach of all poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas which, sours your entire stomach—interferes with your digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that what you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out of order stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly without any fuss or discomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

PREACHED AT SYCAMORE.

Dr. Claude S. Moore of Dixon will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening and will conduct a special rally of the Methodist Brotherhood, having organized the class in former years. Dr. J. P. Bushingham, the pastor, will be absent from Sycamore Sunday in order to participate in the 75th anniversary and jubilee service of the First M. E. church in Chicago, the oldest church of any denomination in that city. Dr. Brushingham was pastor of this church for nine consecutive years. —Sycamore Tribune.

LONG TERM AT GALENA.

Judge R. S. Farrand and his reporter, A. C. Gossman, were home over Sunday from Galena, where circuit court is now in session. They returned again this morning. Judge Farrand said the term there this time will be a long one.

NEW DISPATCHERS ARE NOW ON DUTY

ADDITIONAL FORCE HANDLING
TRAINS BETWEEN FREE-PORT AND AMBOY.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC MUCH HEAVIER

Business of the Amboy District Is Increasing by Leaps and Bounds.

As a follow-up on the story in the Freeport Journal the new set of dispatchers for the Amboy district of the Freeport division of the I. C. railroad, began work at 7 p. m. on Thursday handling trains between Freeport and Amboy.

This change the payroll in Freeport by $390 per month and brings to Freeport three new families. The first trick from 8 a. m. until 4 p. m., is in charge of Dispatcher Geo. Macon, who has been extra dispatcher for the Central at Clinton; the second trick, from 8 to midnight, is in charge of Dispatcher Geo. J. Hotelling, from Albany, N. Y., having been chief dispatcher on the N. Y. Central, and the third trick, from midnight to 8 a. m., is taken care of by Dispatcher George Cox of Freeport, who has been promoted from operator in the dispatcher's office. An additional telegrapher, W. McDonald of Chicago, has been installed.

The second dispatchers' division of the Amboy district is in charge of Dispatcher Frank Schillinger, S. Davis and C. S. Pack, who have here before handled the entire district. The lines of the Madison and Dodgeville are handled by the north end Amboy district dispatchers.

Daily Returns.

Supt. Bailey returned from Chicago last night, having spent a day in Park Row arranging the new freight schedule. The changes contemplated will necessarily affect the time card of passenger trains, but the changes will be immaterial and will be announced later.

Quiet as to Train Robberies.

There are no new developments in regard to the recent train robberies, or car robberies. It is expected that something will drop before a great while.

Great Traffic Increase.

The freight traffic on the south end of the Central has increased greatly this fall and the increase to the dispatchers' force has been the outcome. The new time card which will go into effect in a few days will show several additional freights, and this will make the south line one of the best freight revenue producers on the system.

CANADIAN NAVY BEREFT OF HISTORIC Grog TUB.

Dominion Sets Example of Teetotalism
For British Warships.

Marking the inauguration of a Canadian fleet, the cruiser Niobe has been transferred to the Canadian government, and the Rainbow already has arrived at Halifax after her voyage from English home waters.

But what has chiefly aroused discussion among the officers and men of Britain's fleets has been the fact that the Rainbow departed for her new field of service without having a "grog tub" for the benefit of the crew.

The Dominion navy, so far as its official dietary is concerned, is to be run on teetotal lines.

Curiously enough, this departure from British custom appears to have occasioned no regret among the men who have volunteered for service in the Niobe and Rainbow. They are represented as bidding goodbye to that time honored institution, the "grog tub," without sorrow.

Speculation is rife as to what may be the result of this example set by the Dominion.

MANUEL'S CHOICE LIMITED.

Only Six Marriageable European Prin-

A young European king who is still a bachelor, like the king of Portugal, has only at the present time a limited choice if he is confined to royal families in his search for a wife.

The eighteen royal or imperial courts of Europe can only offer him six princesses of marriageable age--one in Germany, the only daughter of the kaiser, Princess Victoria Louise, who is eighteen; two in Denmark, Princess Thyra, who is thirty, and Princess Dagmar, twenty; two in the newly made royal court of Montenegro, Princess Xenia, twenty-nine, and Princess Vera, twenty-three, and finally one in Serbia, the eldest child of King Peter, aged twenty-six.

One cause of this lack of marriageable princesses is that seldom have so many European thrones been occupied at the same time by young sovereigns, whose families are still in or near the nursery stage.

MILLIONS USE LONDON WATER

Consumers Number Combined Population of Norway and Sweden.

E. B. Barnard, chairman of the Metropolitan water board, in an address on the work of that body at the sanitary inspection conference in London, said that the population which the board was supplying with water was nearly equal to that of the two kingdoms of Norway and Sweden, about the same as the Dominion of Canada,
10,000 more than Australia and New Zealand together and larger than the whole population of Scotland and Wales by about 1,000,000.

If they could build a tank the size of Trafalgar square (two and a half acres) and the height of Nelson's column
London would empty such a tank twice in every twenty-four hours. The water mains alone would reach from Liverpool to New York and back again, and it would take the Mauretania ten days to race along the whole length.

The One to Pay.

When she was Lady Randolph
Churchill, Mrs. George Cornwallis
West consented to electioneer for Mr.
Ashmead Bartlett in his first parliamentary campaign. Mr. Ashmead-
Bartlett was married to the Baroness
Burdett-Coutts, a very rich woman, who was nearly forty years his senior.
Lady Randolph, with her beauty and charms, did splendid work for the candidate.

To a group of farmers she said one day:

"Won't you promise me to vote for Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett?"

"My lady," said a red faced farmer, with a chuckle, "we'll all vote for him if every vote 'll be paid for with a kiss."

"Thank you very much," said Lady Randolph. "Your offer is accepted.
I'll send for the Baroness Burdett-
Coutts at once."

A Curious Remedy.

Perhaps the most curious remedy for sickness ever prescribed was that arranged by Sir Theodore Meyers for the English princess royal when she crossed to Belgium in 1642. Cinnamon, coriander, anise, ambergris, musk and sugar were to be made up into long tubes for her to munch on the voyage;
a plaster of balsam of Peru, gum mas-tich and ladanum was to be applied to the pit of the stomach, and in addition she was to inhale the comforting vapors arising from a hash of toast, orange and citron peel, roses, lavender and cloves mingled with wine, cinnamon water and elder flower vinegar.

MOVEMENTS OF SEQUAKES.

Often Come Without Warning and Force Felt Miles Away.

Sequakes are mighty disturbances of the waters of the ocean, their cause or causes being identical with the causes of earthquakes. In Maj. C. E. Dutton's book, "Earthquakes," the author has some interesting facts regarding the ocean variety of quake. From the entries in the logs of many ships he concludes that in rare cases the power of the sequake shocks may be great enough to render standing on the deck as difficult as it sometimes is on land. It may even be great enough to cause the fear that the vessel is being shaken to pieces. Gigantic waves in the ocean are, of course, a frequent accompaniment of the sequake. On the west coast of South America, where these waves are frequent, they sometimes follow a quake having its center below the sea level, that is also felt on land. But more often they come without warning. The most memorable sequake of this locality occurred Aug. 3, 1868.

Maj. Dutton describes it as follows: "The coast of South America was shaken all the way from Guayaquil in Ecuador to Valdivia in Chile, the highest intensity being manifested in the neighborhood of Arica. The force of the quake in this town was very great, throwing down most of the structures and producing land slips. A few minutes later—precisely how many minutes is not known—the sea was observed to retire slowly from the shore, so that ships anchored in seven fathoms of water were left high and dry.

"A few minutes later still it was seen returning in a great wall or 'bore' which caught up the ships in the roadstead and swept them inland as if they were mere chips of wood. Among them was the United States steamer Waterlee, one of the improvised war vessels of the blockading fleet of the civil war, which was carried inland nearly half a mile and left with little injury on shore by the recession of the wave."

Trivial Causes of War.

The immediate cause of the great wars of history has often been a surprisingly trivial incident. It is said incidentally that no two wars have ever been brought about in exactly the same way. More jests have often caused dreadful wars. In the time of William the Conqueror, for instance, it was a jest pure and simple that brought on the war between England and France and ultimately cost the great William his life. One day his contemporary Philip of France, while superintending the siege of Mantes, a more recent case is told of Frederick the Great, who nearly caused a war with England by referring to King George as "a bloated ox." In a recent war between the army of Ecuador and that of a neighboring state considerable damage had been done before any explanations were forthcoming. Then it transpired that the rival armies had been "manoeuvring" on the frontier rather too near each other, and could not resist the temptation to try conclusions. The only recent case in Europe of a formal declaration of war made before actual operations were begun was that of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870. The first intimations of the intentions of the Boers in their war came out of the muzzles of their mausers.

More Boys Than Girls Born.

Europe—Since more boys than girls are born in the countries of western Europe, the proportion being 1,040 to 1,000 boys to every 1,000 girls, how can we account for the fact that there are more women than men in these countries? To this question M. de Varingy, a French scientist, replies at length in a leading Paris paper. "Since there are more women, although more men are born," he says, "we must conclude that more men than women die because they are not as healthy. There is no other solution, and, moreover, all the obtainable facts point in the same direction. More boys are born than girls, yet there are almost always more girls alive than boys. Many persons think that the principal reason why more men die than women is because they lead intemperate lives, but, though there may be some truth in this, it cannot be the sole solution of the problem, as the mortality among males is greatest during their early years, before they know what vice or intemperance means."

Germany's Puzzolani Cement.

In Germany Puzzolani cement is now a well recognized trade product, with a good reputation for its properties of strength and hardness. This cement is produced by grinding and thoroughly mixing 85 per cent granulated slag with 15 per cent of lime hydrate. Slag has also been employed in Germany largely by the Portland cement manufacturers as a substitute for the marl and limestone, and the claims that cement made with this addition is stronger than the ordinary cement have now been recognized by eminent authorities.—London Engineer.

How one man fooled his wife

She had been using her "favorite" baking powder. Wouldn't think of trying anything else, because "mother always used it," or some similar excuse. Hubby said she was prejudiced. He figured if Calumet, the new baking powder, selling at a moderate price, could be so successful, there must be some good in it. So he took a hand, and bought a can of Calumet, emptied the can containing her "favorite" baking powder and filled it with Calumet.

That evening, unsuspecting the trick, Wife prepared and served some of her famous biscuit— piping hot, temptingly browned and puffed up to airy lightness, they were even more delicious than usual. Hubby, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in convincing her that the basis of the improvement was Calumet Baking powder. And so an everlasting friend for Calumet was made.

This truthful little incident simply proves that the housewife is oftentimes prejudiced against all baking powders except the one she has been using for years. She imagines that no other kind can possibly be as good. This is a mistaken impression. A trial of Calumet will prove that it is purer, more reliable; it has a greater leavening power than any other baking powder made. And it is moderate in price.

4 DIE IN GUN BLAST

Accident Occurs at Indian Head Proving Grounds.

Lieutenant Arthur K. Caffee, in Charge of the Gun, and Three Assistants Are Victims.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Four men were killed by the premature explosion of a five-inch gun at the Indian Head proving grounds of the navy. The breech-block of the gun, which was being tested, blew backward into the crew firing the gun.

The dead are Lieutenant Arthur K. Caffee, who was in charge of the gun; J. L. Brown, battery foreman; Nelson Jackson, a negro battery attendant, and J. J. Leary, ordnance man. Sidney Dyson, negro member of the gun crew, was seriously injured.

The gun, which was a new one from the navy yard gun factory, and was being tested for the first time, had been fired twice. The accident occurred just as the breech was being closed for the third round.

PREMIER BRIAND ATTACKED

Crowd at Monument Unveiling Nearly Lynch His Assailant.

Paris, Nov. 21.—As Premier Briand was leaving the scene after the unveiling of a monument to Jules Ferry at the Tuilleries, a man rushed up to him, brandishing a cane, and knocked his hat off.

The crowd prevented a serious assault and nearly lynched the assailant, who proved to belong to an association known as the King's Camelots, the members of which are every ready to create disturbances, supposedly on behalf of the royalist movement.

FOSS DENOUNCES LODGE

New Governor of Massachusetts Issues Warning Note.

Says If Senator Lodge Does Not Withdraw Candidacy for Re-Election He Will Stump the State.

Boston, Nov. 21.—In a statement issued to the newspapers Gov. Elbert Foss demanded that United States Senator Lodge withdraw as a candidate for re-election and in event of his failure to do so threatens to make a campaign against him. Foss says: "His election to the senate would be a repudiation of the great victory of the people at the last election. He was on trial as much, if not more than Gov. Draper, and if he had been the candidate, my majority would have been double what it was."

"I shall never sign his credentials except at the end of a campaign which will make the last one look like an afternoon tea party. He must surrender or fight. He must defend his position before the people. The people of Massachusetts will not permit him longer to manipulate the legislature. I am ready and if he does not retire, I will be on the stump in every section of the state and we will find out where the people stand."

THANKSGIVING BLESSINGS.

But a few more days till Thanksgiving.

Older than the republic—older than the Fourth of July, or than Washington's birthday. Thanksgiving, with its sweet savoring of the true but unofficial national bird done brown, is the only typically American festival. Other nations have their Fourths or their Fourteenth of July—none has anything just like our Thanksgiving day. It's natural. Few of them have as few to be thankful for as have we. Few of them have had fathers with spirits strong enough to breed defiance to a king and steadfast enough to brave unshaken the dreary misery of a Valley Forge in making good that defiance.

So when we come to count our blessings, the fathers of the republic should perhaps come first. It's no light thing to be able to boast of fathers who were willing to sacrifice the uttermost in our behalf, to work unceasingly, to pay without stint, to fight sturdily, to die cheerfully—all that we might have something to be thankful for.

And then, of course, each of us has any number of personal blessings to count in the aggregate. You say that you are thankful that you have prospered as you have, or that you have not dropped as much money as you might have dropped, or that you have good health, or that you are not as sick as you might be, or that the comet got by without doing any real harm. At least you may be thankful that you are alive, or—

Hold on! We've heard all this before. If this is the best we can do we might as well quit. We might as well put Thanksgiving day in the lumber room of forgotten festivals, for all these things are not the real thing in the way of blessings.

Have we been true to the sacrifice our fathers made for us?

It is not that the fathers fought for us. That was their blessing not ours. Ours hangs on the question "What have we done to deserve the sacrifice they made for us?"

Have we emulated them in point of idealism and sacrifice, have we risked fortune or life that our children may enjoy the liberty that our fathers bequeathed us?

If we have not and God knows, most of us have not, we have no right under heaven to claim their sacrifice as our Thanksgiving blessing.

And these picaresque personal blessings of ours—that we have money and position and health—what are they if we have not the blessing of service as a touchstone to make them real. What are they if we have not used our money unselfishly, if we have not used our position to make somebody happier, if we have never lifted a finger or walked a mile on behalf of someone to whom we owe nothing but the common debt of man to man.

TYPHOID CASES GROW

Twenty Members at Naval Academy Stricken With Disease.

Milk Furnished Institution Is Now Believed to Have Been Infected—Danger Period Continues.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 21.—Six more midshipmen have been taken to the naval hospital suffering from typhoid fever, the whole number affected being now twenty. Medical officers of the academy expect that a few more cases will develop, but believe that they have eliminated the source of the trouble, a temporary supply of milk.

One reason for laying the blame on this milk was that typhoid appeared among the midshipmen at exactly the time it might have been expected, after the supply supposed to be infected had begun to be used. The use of the milk stopped on Nov. 9, but the danger period continues, the navy doctors say, until about Nov. 28.

PRESIDENT ON HIS WAY HOME

Will Land at Hampton Roads Instead of Charleston as Planned.

Washington, Nov. 21.—A wireless message received at the White House from Mr. North, secretary to the president, says that "All aboard the Tennessee are well."

The news is confirmed also that the president will come to Hampton Roads and will board the Mayflower for Washington, instead of coming home via Charleston by rail. The president is expected to reach the White House in time to eat Thanksgiving turkey.

RAIL MEN TO CONFER

Meet in Washington to Form Good Roads Organization.

Many Prominent Men Are Expected to Identify Themselves With National Association.

Washington, Nov. 21.—A dozen or more railroad presidents, among them W. C. Brown of the New York Central lines, and Louis Hill of the Great Northern railway, and others will attend a meeting in this city Tuesday, called for the purpose of considering the advisability of forming a national organization in the interest of good roads. Secretary Wilson will preside.

The men behind the movement say that a national association will be organized and that it will maintain permanent headquarters in Washington, "which will be a sort of clearing house where every legitimate and helpful undertaking looking to the betterment of the public roads will find a systematic hearing and receive helpful co-operation."

Among those expected to identify themselves with the association are B. F. Yoakum, of the Frisco system; James McCrea, of the Pennsylvania; W. W. Finley, of the Southern railway; Dr. E. J. James, of the University of Illinois; John Stuart, of New York; A. J. Spalding and W. D. Brown, of the rural free delivery news.

WILSON TALKS OF HIGH PRICES

Secretary of Agriculture Blames Telephones and Flats.

MARKET BASKET DAYS GONE

Now Milady Does Her Buying Through the Telephone and Delivery Has To Be Paid for Some Way—Cattle Shipments.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Telephones and flats. These two necessities of present-day civilization are in a measure responsible for the high cost of living in the opinion of James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, who came to Chicago to speak at the United States Land and Irrigation show.

No longer does the thrifty housewife go to market with a basket on her arm to pick out the provender for the hungry mouths at home.

No. Today milady in lace beruffled morning gown retires to the library, where she reaches for the nickel-in-the-slot machine and says:

"Mr. Schmalz? This is Mrs. Langgudness. Please send me over a 5-cent soup bone and have it tender, please."

Then Schmalz has to hurry the order over or lose the patronage. It costs him more to deliver the bone than it is worth, so in selling other meats someone has to "pay the freight."

Then, too, in the old days when mother and father took the latter's pay envelop to market on Saturday night they carried large baskets in which they brought home provisions for the week. Thus they saved the cost of delivery and got the benefits that accrue from buying in large quantities.

With the facilities that the present Chicago flats afford only enough for one meal can be brought into them at any one time.

But despite the flat and the telephone prices of meats and other foods are going to come down. There is going to be more of a drop than there has been in the last few days.

"The present drop in prices is due to the droughts," said Secretary Wilson in his apartments in a Michigan avenue hotel. "All the grass was burned up and hay is now so expensive that it does not pay to feed it."

"So the cattle raisers are shipping all of their animals to the packers and the supply is larger than it has been for some time. Consequently there was a drop in prices. There may be a slight rise soon, but it will drop again when the corn-fed animals are shipped to market."

"The corn crop has been the largest we have ever had and feed will be cheap. So there will be a greater fall in the price of meats."

"We have found in investigation that the wholesaler puts on, arbitrarily, an increase of 38 per cent before selling to the consumer. Now, much of this is justified to meet delivery and other expenses, but it shows in a way where much of the profit is going."

DIED TO SAVE OTHERS

Leslie Childs, a Youth of Chicago, Run Down by a Train.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Leslie Childs, nineteen years old, a student at Lewis institute and a son of S. D. Childs, treasurer of S. D. Childs & Co., stationery supplies, gave up his life to save two girls, one of them his sister, from death beneath the wheels of a train.

Young Childs was walking between his two companions on the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks at Berteau avenue, Jefferson Park, and in stopping to push them from in front of a train rushing up behind, he was unable to jump clear of the tracks himself, and was run down and killed.

PARALYZED, HANGS HIMSELF

Patient in Chicago Hospital, With Back Broken, Commits Suicide.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Paralysis of his body from the amputated down did not limit the movements of Amiel Von Jakren, a Chicago tilesetter, enough to prevent him from committing suicide.

His back was broken July 14 and above his cot in a hospital there had been arranged a frame with a rope and pulley with which he could alter his position when fatigued. He tied the rope around his neck and twisted himself about until he died of strangulation.

BOY FIRES MOTHER'S DRESS

Candle Carelessly Handled by Lad Causes Fatal Blaze.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A lighted candle carelessly handled by Thomas Kelly, aged 10 years, set fire to the dress of his mother, Mrs. Alice Kelly, 854 Center street, and the woman suffered burns which resulted in her death at St. Joseph's hospital.

The boy was holding the light in a basement room of their home so Mrs. Kelly could see to get a basket of coal. A brother, Vincent, aged 4, also was present.

GOETHAL SUBMITS WATERWAY DATA

Engineer in Charge of Construction of Canal Gives Details.

BIG SLIDES PROVE HANDICAP

Interesting Data of a General Character Is Incorporated in Report Made to Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The annual report of Col. George W. Goethals, the army engineer in charge of the construction of the Panama canal, to Secretary of War Dickinson has been made public. In this report Col. Goethals discusses the big slides in Culebra cut, which have impeded the progress of the work. The colonel says:

"Previous to the fiscal year the movement of material into the prism was due almost entirely to slides caused by the movement of the top layer of clay on smooth, sloping surface of rock or other material harder than clay. In addition to the slides several breaks have occurred in the banks of the canal. At the points where these breaks exist the underlying rock is of poor quality intersected by vertical seams sloping toward the canal."

"The total amount of material removed from all slides and breaks in the central division during the fiscal year amounted to 2,649,563 cubic yards, or about 15 percent of the amount removed from the Culebra cut."

"The average number of gold employees on the roll of the commission this year was 4,369, and on the rolls of the Panama railroad 753, a total of 5,122. Laborers recruited during the year aggregated 2,519, all West Indians, and most from them from Barbadoes."

The report says that the last recruiting was done in January, 1910, and since that date immigration has exceeded emigration. Col. Goethals adds that as the work has reached its maximum, the present population of the zone furnishes an ample labor supply. There are now 3,478 buildings in the canal zone. The total amount of material received from the United States during the year aggregated 350,000 tons, valued at $10,102,000.

Uncle Sam, according to Col. Goethals' report, is now running nineteen hotels on the isthmus, nineteen European laborers' messes and twenty common laborers' kitchens. On Uncle Sam's best hotel on the isthmus he made a profit for the year of $4,573.23. During the year 6,907 arrests were made in the canal zone, which is an increase of 672 over the number of the previous year. During the year twelve schools for whites and fifteen for colored children were maintained. A paid fire company was also established during the year at Gatun and fire alarm systems installed.

The daily average of sick in the canal zone was 23.01, out of every 1,000 employed, as against 23.49 for the preceding year. The total number of deaths among employees was only 548, equivalent to an average of 10.84 per 1,000.

TOLSTOY PASSES INTO DEATH SLEEP

Dies at Astapovo at an Early Hour on Sunday Morning.

NOW COMES DEATH; THAT'S ALL

Countess and Family in Chamber as Spirit Departs, but the Count Was Unconscious—Will Be Buried on Hill Near Old Home.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—The Holy Synod held three meetings, and after the synod had adjourned, it was announced that no masses or other ecclesiastical rites would be allowed to be performed over the body of Count Leo Tolstoy.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—Count Tolstoy, who died Sunday morning at Astapovo, passed away ten days after he had left his home at Yasnaya Polyana in search of solitude and peace of soul. The physicians allowed his wife and family to enter the death chamber, but the count was unconscious. There were six doctors in attendance, two of them being heart specialists, who had been summoned from Moscow on Friday. Their presence drew a characteristic remark from the patient when he was recovering from the second of three violent cardiac attacks which preceded his last hours.

"There are millions of people in the world," said the dying count, "and many of them are suffering. Why then are you all around the bed of one sick man?"

These are said to have been his last coherent words, although he lived several hours after uttering them. When he recovered from one attack he took the hand of his daughter, Lilianna, who was beside his bed, and said: "Now comes death. That's all."

His third seizure early Sunday morning left him so weak that the physicians saw that recovery was improbable, then they admitted the countess. Shortly after death the body was clothed in the black shirt and other moujik garments which Tolstoy habitually wore. The expression of the face was peaceful and natural. The villagers decked the death room with pine boughs and afterwards the residents of the neighborhood of all classes and ages walked past the bier. A majority of these mourners were peasants and school children.

If the present arrangements are carried out the body will be removed to Yasnaya Polyana today, and will be buried on the Tolstoy estate without ceremonies, wreaths or other display. It is stated that Tolstoy wished his grave to be on a certain hill at Yasnaya Polyana, where he was fond of playing in his boyhood.

The count did not make any reconciliation with the church. Whether the church will allow masses to be said for the soul of the count, is unknown. It is stated, however, that with the view to averting possible popular desecration, the holy synod will adopt the fiction that Tolstoy's personal visits to the monasteries at Optin and Schamardinsky, indicated his desire to return to orthodoxy, and will concede ecclesiastical rights.

All privately owned theaters in the capital were closed last night out of respect to Tolstoy. Grand Duke Nicholas Michaelovich has telegraphed Countess Tolstoy, saying: "My whole soul is with you and your family in this sad time."

TOWN HAS CLOSE CALL

Runaway Horse Scatters Boxes of Dynamite.

Luckily, None of the Stuff Exploded, and Roselle Park, N. J., Citizens Are Duly Thankful.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 21.—The 2,000 inhabitants of the little village of Roselle Park, N. J., have good cause for celebrating Thanksgiving this year. That they are all alive is little short of a miracle in the opinion of most of them.

A junkman's horse which ran away on Main street plunged through the fence enclosing a freight yard and pulled his heavy wagon right over forty cases of dynamite which were being unloaded by a contracting firm. Explosion of the stuff would have blown the town to pieces.

The wheels of the wagon struck the boxes and knocked several of them into splinters, scattering the contents. Men who saw whither the horse was headed scampered in all directions.
